Phoenix Aggregation Cleans that From out State in Bowling Match at Past-time. Some Good Scores Develop

The Phoenix Laundry cleaned the Arizona last night in two games out of three of the match at the Pastime hall. Not that either team needed laundering, but just on general principles, you know.

Some fair scores distinguished the bouts and Brazee of the city team made a remarkable showing of 230 points in the last game. This is but a few pins below the high record.

DISCOVERIES OF PHOSPHATE DEPOSITS.

Three Beds of Important Mineral Fertilizer Located in Montana.

From outcrops of phosphate rock in the Garnet Range, 6 miles north of Garrison, Mont., may be seen, 35 miles away, immense volumes of smoke pouring out of the smelter stacks at Anaconda—great quantities of sulphurous acid escaping into the atmosphere. At times this acid-laden smoke-clouds the whole of Deer Lodge Valley. The great economic importance of this situation lies in the fact that phosphate rock is quickly rendered available as a plant food by dissolution in sulphuric acid. The combination of immense deposits of phosphate rock and a practically unlimited and readily accessible supply of sulphuric acid may have considerable bearing on the agricultural progress of the west in years to come, if not indeed at present.

This deposit of phosphate near Garrison is one of the three discovered in Montana in 1911 by J. T. Pardee, of the United States Geological Survey. The others are at Phillipsburg, on the south slope of Flagstaff Hill, and half a mile east of Elliston, north of Little Blackfoot River. Rock phosphate was also discovered in the same year by R. W. Stone, of the Geological Survey, about 2 miles east of Cardwell, Mont., on the Northern Pacific railway, at the summit of the cliffy slope rising to the west from Jefferson river.

These discoveries were merely incidental to the prosecution of other geological work so that the deposits were not studied in any great detail. Enough was learned, however, to make certain that they are commercially valuable and of the same type as the phosphate found by Hoyt S. Gale, also of the Federal Survey, near Melrose, Mont., in 1910 and that of the extensive Idaho-Wyoming field. The deposits discovered by Mr. Pardee lie from 60 to 70 miles north and that by Mr. Stone 40 miles northeast of Melrose; hence they may be said to extend the limits of the known phosphate field for those distances.

At the point near Garrison the phosphate bed is 8 feet thick and more than 4 feet of it is shown by analyses to be high grade material. At neither Phillipsburg nor Elliston was the thickness of the bed determined, but the outcrops show that in each place it is at least a foot thick and the distribution of float indicates that it is probably more, about the same as in the Garnet Range. At Cardwell it probably exceeds 2 feet in thickness.

Although detailed work on which to base a tonnage estimate has not yet been done, it is apparent from the examinations made that in the Garnet Range, at least, a large amount of phosphate is present. For instance, 14,000 tons would be the content of an acre underlain by a flat bed of phosphate 4 feet thick. Where the phosphate bed is steeply tilted, as it commonly is in this region, the amount beneath an acre is much greater.

The phosphate deposits at both Phillipsburg and Elliston are near the tracks of the Northern Pacific railway; that at Cardwell lies near the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound and Northern Pacific railways; and that north of Garrison is readily accessible by two wagon roads, one going directly north from that place, the other up the valley of Warm Spring Creek. The creek route is one that offers no unusual difficulties for the construction of a railroad that would with a haul of about 6 miles, place the phosphate on the main line of two trunk railroads.

These discoveries are described briefly in Bulletin 539-H, "Phosphates in Idaho and Montana," by A. R. Schultz, R. W. Richards and J. T. Pardee, just issued by the United States Geological Survey, a copy of which may be obtained free on application to the Director at Washington, D. C.

A hearing on the form of contract for the construction of a section of the subway is set for January 30.

PRECINCT LAW IS ATTACKED

Constitutionality of Statute Allowing Supervisors to Re-district Counties and Appoint Precinct Officers Questioned

The constitutionality of Chapter 42 of the Session laws of the state of Arizona as passed by the first session of the state legislature was attacked yesterday in the supreme court of the state before a full bench of the judges, on an appeal from the superior court of Cochise county, coming up on an agreement between counsel. The case is the appeal of Justice of the Peace M. C. High of one of the Bisbee precincts, whose precinct was disarranged by the county board of supervisors in a recent meeting.

The law allows the supervisors to re-district the counties and to appoint the justices for each precinct thus made. There is therefore a pretty general fight on the part of the justices of the state, numbering nearly ninety, and the constables bringing the total number of officers interested up to 175.

W. B. Cleary and J. W. Ross of Bisbee appeared for Judge High, while District Attorney W. G. Gilmore and Judge Murray appeared for the board of supervisors. In addition to the argument the attorneys filed briefs in the case with the court.

The argument was hotly contested. The supreme court showed great interest in the argument asking a number of questions of each of the representatives before the court. After the argument the case was taken under consideration and a decision will be handed down in the course of a short time. There is at present a similar case pending before the superior court of the county of Maricopa, brought by Judge Johnston one of the precinct officers of this county. However it is likely if the Cochise county case is decided first it will end further controversy on the matter.

FINANCES AND MARKETS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The stock market shared the general depression of the world's financial exchanges today. Foreign influences predominated. The upheaval in Turkey with its dimming of peace prospects and the unsettling of foreign markets were reflected here in declines along all classes of stocks running in some cases to three points at the low prices of the day. Americans in London weakened appreciably before the opening here, first prices exhibited sharp recessions among substantial stocks. The close found quotations generally off on the day, although in some instances well above the lowest figures. A severe break in Illinois Central which sent it down 6 points to 121 was another unsettling feature. The break gave rise to rumors questioning the stability of the dividend although there is no official basis for such reports. Union Pacific which holds twenty-two and a half millions of Illinois Central stock, weakened on the fear of possible reduction in its revenue from this source.

A reassuring statement from the president of the Illinois Central was followed by the recovery of more than half the loss. The selling of stocks here by London influence declined. Heavy movement of gold continued, more than five millions being withdrawn from the sub treasury for shipment to South America. Known movements of currency during the week indicate the loss in gold is more than offset by continued receipts from the interior in cash, a gain of about $3000 being the forecast.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales at par $2,000,000. Governments were unchanged.
